Traveling by Airplane

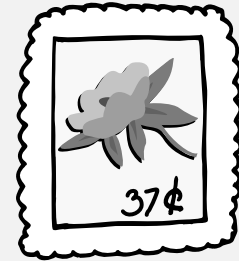

March 19, 2000

Dear Amanda,

Thank you for the wonderful visit. I am glad we get to see each other once a year. I wish we lived closer than 1,800 miles apart. On the way home I flew on a Boeing 747 jet. It was very crowded. I learned that there were almost 500 people on board. It was nice that I had a direct flight to Kansas City. It only took three hours once we left the San Francisco airport. I figured that we were traveling about 560 miles per hour. I wonder how much jet fuel we burned traveling that fast? Next year it will be your turn to visit me in Kansas City.

Your cousin,
Sarah
